[1] Lifeline Express is the world's first hospital on a train. It started with a simple idea: take the hospital to people who do not have access to health care services in rural areas. An Indian foundation proposed the idea to the Ministry of Railways. Shortly after, the Railways and the foundation signed an agreement in which the Railways would offer a three-coach train, provide water and electricity while the foundation would provide medical services.

[2] There are fewer than 10 doctors for every 10,000 inhabitants in India. Many people must travel hundreds of miles to reach the nearest hospital. So, the train hospital is their only hope for medical treatment. For 26 years, Lifeline Express has been traveling through India to bring health services to millions of Indians who are in need of healthcare. It has helped many patients with sight, hearing, or movement problems.

[3] The train hospital regularly camps in different parts of the country. Each camp lasts 35 days and involves treating patients, training local doctors, and raising health awareness among the rural population. Dr. Sarin, Lifeline Express chairman, said: Now, the train hospital is operating with only three coaches. Soon, two new coaches will be added. A lot of help comes from companies, individuals, and doctors across the country. But, we still need to improve our medical services. We need a blood bank and sophisticated equipment to do major surgeries. Hundreds of villagers are in urgent need of help.

[4] The train hospital is not only treating patients but changing their social lives as well. Dr. Nagda is a surgeon who has volunteered to work on the train for the last 16 years. He remembers receiving a wedding invitation from Sajida, a girl he once treated. When she came to me as a child, she had a foot deformity. I told her father that after treatment she would be able to go to school, but he was more worried about her marriage. After the surgery, she could walk normally. She even finished her studies and got married. The train hospital has saved over a million lives across the country and has inspired similar experiences in many other countries.

Task 2: How to Stay Healthy Health is the most precious thing we have, and young people can protect it with simple habits. First of all, young people should eat balanced meals with fruit and vegetables and drink plenty of water. They should also do sport at least three times a week and sleep eight hours every night. On the other hand, they shouldn't eat too much fast food or drink sugary drinks, and they shouldn't spend hours in front of screens. Above all, they must never smoke or take drugs. In conclusion, a healthy lifestyle is easy to follow, and it will make us stronger and happier.
